Don't forget something for the pets this holiday season.

If you have a pet you consider part of the family, then you will want to include them in your holiday celebrations.

Every year Jennifer Angel puts out her holiday pet gift guide, and this year she has searched for the best pet gifts on the market and her favorite pet sites. From simple toys to extravagant gifts — no matter what your budget — there is something for everyone, so don't forget to include your pet on your gift list.

PET RANGE. Petsmart.

This year, Petsmart has a wide variety of holiday gifts to fit any budget. Some favorites: the Martha Stewart range of sweaters in turquoise, green and red, with collars to match — great for the holiday and fashionable to wear throughout the year. The Bret Michaels Pet range is fun and fashionable, as is The Top Paw range that has fabulous collars, garments and toys.

To support one of Petsmart's chosen charities, look for the Luv-A-Pet range. If your pet doesn't like to dress up but you still want to get them into the holiday spirit, the reindeer ears are a lot of fun.

For a sweet treat, look for the Dog Treat Wreath and dog safe Gingerbone House. And to make your grooming days a lot easier, the Chi dryer and complete range of Chi products are excellent.

PET RANGE. Bitchnewyork.com offers a range of top of the line doggie products created by leading design experts around the world. For the pup on your list that refuses to be seen in anything less than couture, this site is for them.
